PREFACE

Early Addingtons of history: Nicholas Addington, 1448; Robert Addington, 1500; William Addington, 1600; Thomas Addington, Esq., 1688.

The family originating in one of the world's largest cities, London, where places are thus named: Addington, Addington Park, Addington Road, Addington Street. Judge George Addington was a public official in the latter part of the nineteenth and the beginning of the twentieth century of Albany, N. Y. Early, the Hon. Isaac Addingtons of Boston.

An Addington Book published 1931, 101 pages, by this author, covered the William and Margaret Cromwell Addington line of Virginia, and their descendants. It also gave persons by name of Addington who served in the U. S. Navy in World War I; and approximately the number—125, but not the names, who served in U. S. Army in said war. A number of noted Addingtons of the United States and, also, of England were given, as well as the multiplicity of other family names related or connected with the above Addington—Crownwell line.

Now, I have been asked to edit Addington Volume II, this book, to cover the history, genealogy, and many lines of an earlier Addington emigrant to the new world, coming first to Pennsylvania. His name was Henry Addington, a very familiar name, and I have had extensive and gracious help from many important sources. His lines extended South and North, East and West.

CHAPTER I

Henry Addington

According to records in an old Bible, Henry Addington was born 1727 in England, married Elizabeth Burson, and on arrival in America, first settled near Philadelphia. In 1755, with their three sons, John, William, and James, the family moved to 96 District, South Carolina, in the "upper country" just vacated by the Cherokees per agreement or covenant with the governor of South Carolina.

The emigrant Henry Addington made his Will in 1787. He made a bequest to all his children naming them as follows: four sons—John, William, James, and Henry, Jr.; five daughters—Elizabeth, Sarah, Charlotta, Martha Burton Bach, and Bethena McClain. He made provision for his wife, "Sarah," and "to my son Henry 3 pounds sterling put to interest until he arrives at the age of 21 years." Could the wife's name been Sarah Elizabeth, or a second marriage? The home place, consisting of 250 acres by the governor, was willed to his son, William Addington, and in this connection in making provision for his wife, Sarah, the father mentions her as William's mother.

CHAPTER II

John Addington

Of the eldery sons of the emigrant Henry, John married first, Mary Lamb, and they had two children, William became a resident of Randolph County, Indiana—entered a part of the land on which Ridgeville is now located, and built a mill that was known as the "Whipple Mill." The other child, Alcie Addington, married Mr. Garrett who had a number of land transactions with his father-in-law, John Addington, in Union County, South Carolina.

After the decease of his first wife, John Addington next married, 5-3-1775, Elizabeth Heaton, daughter of Joseph Heaton, Pennsylvania. Miss Marion H. Addington, Washington, D. C., a daughter of John La Salle Addington, kinfolks, has presented the following data of the Birth and Death Records of Bush River Monthly Meeting of the Friends, Newberry County, South Carolina.

COMMENT

Having just concluded for now, and the purposes of this book, the genealogy of the third son of John Addington and Elizabeth Heaton who migrated from Union County, South Carolina in 1806 to Wayne County, Indiana, with some of his younger children. He gave his son, Thomas, power of attorney to sell lands and real estate left behind, dated September 17, 1806. It is of Court Record in said Union County that Thomas Addington under power of attorney for his father said John Addington, sold four tracts of land, all in the year 1806.

An Addington record of Indiana states that the older sons of John and Elizabeth came and located in Randolph County, formed from Wayne County 1818, from North Carolina. After selling out in South Carolina they probably sojourned awhile in the adjoining state, before taking the trail for Indiana. John Addington deceased at Chester, Indiana in 1819 and was buried at nearby Ridgeville, in Randolph County. In the book, Margaret Water's Revolutionary Soldiers Buried In Indiana, published 1949, mention is specifically made of this John Addington buried at Ridgeville, Indiana.

Before me is a neat, interesting little booklet, History of the Addington Family. It evidently was published in Indiana about 1910. I have it through the courtesy of Rev. George E. Addington of Ridgeville, Indiana, now 85 years "young." The title page reads as follows: "History of the Addington Family Compiled and read by The Rev. Thomas Addington at the meeting of the Graham-Addington Reunion Association at Mills' Lake, Randolph County — Labor Day, September 5, 1910."

The well-gotten-up pamphlet, in conclusion, gives the names, addresses, and ages of the persons in attendance . . . big congregation. It might look as if I should give it here, but that would involve so much repetition as the whole crowd was there from most everywhere. I have kept its contents in mind, and perhaps later I shall give from it something that is new, New York Addingtons. Addington reunions were held in Indiana on a large scale as early as 1850-1875. "In the early part of the 19th century many persons migrated from Tennessee and the Carolinas and established themselves in Wayne and Randolph Counties, along the Ohio border mid-way north and south in Indiana."

Now I will take up the other four children of John and Elizabeth Heaton Addington, namely: Mary, Sarah, Elizabeth, and James.

4th. MARY was born 1780, married a man by name of Roberts.

5th. SARAH, born 1783, also married a man by name of Roberts.

6th. ELIZABETH, born February 9, 1787, married October 1, 1807, James Martindale of Warren County, Ohio, an adjoining County of Wayne County, Indiana. They had two sons, John, born 1810, and William, born 1814, both born in Indiana. Can add no futher information except from a letter. Mrs. Elizabeth Addington Martindale was the great, great grandmother of Mrs. John E. Connolly, genealogist of Twin Falls, Idaho.

CHAPTER IV

James Addington "the Younger," of John and Elizabeth

He was the seventh child born February 6, 1789, moved to Wayne County, Indiana 1806, married Nancy Lewelling 1809. They had seven children: John L., William L., Rachel, Benjamin L., Thomas L., Isaac L., and Mary Addington.

John L. Addington, the eldest son of James, married Sally Stephens, November 8, 1832. They had eight children: James A. Addington, Matilda, Francis L., Nathan A., Alice, Mary, William B., and George.

Loosing his wife 1847, John L. Addington married 5th of May 1848, Nancy Fansher by whom they had three sons, to wit: Samuel L., Thomas L., and John LaSall Addington. These three sons later were identified with "Addington" and Ada towns in Oklahoma.

The father, John L., deceased 1858 in Kansas, and Nancy Fansher Addington, second wife, died 1878 after returning to Indiana. John L.'s sisters, Rachel and Mary probably married—were in Kansas. Did his brothers go west too(?) I believe Issac L. did not. He married Piety Horn, parents of B. F. Addington, who married Ella Miller; who had three children: Pearl, Clayton, and Ida. Clayton married Nova Williams. Ida married Stephen Ringley, raised a family. Pearl deceased. B. F. Addington's second marriage was to Vernie Osburn—issue Ray R., Carl, Helen, and Garnet. B. F. A. had six sisters: Sarah Ann, Rose, Cora, Mary, Flora, and Minnie.

JAMES A. ADDINGTON FAMILY

He was the first child of John L. Addington, was born December 11, 1833, married 1854 Nancy Kelly, born

THANKS!

In conclusion of the John Addington and Elizabeth Burson family history in this book, I am due to thank the Rev. George E. Addington of Indiana for his "Library" of information on the Addingtons. Somewhere I read of him, "All his life he has been willing to extend a helping hand." He probably began his career as a school teacher, and he has been active in the pulpit 60 years. He was early elected president of the Franklin Township Sunday School Association and served 7 years. Later served in the same capacity as county president 4 years. In business life he helped to organize the Farm Bureau for Randolph County, and was manager 3 years, and 9 years he was manager of the Ridgeville Lumber Company. "Always willing to give a helping hand."

I am, also, due many thanks to Mrs. Blanche Addington Sanders, present owner of the old Bible, Independence, Missouri. She has done everything in her might and power to get data for this book -- writing to relatives away for help, visiting city libraries and historical societies for information and data, consulting telephone and telegraph systems, presenting articles and clippings from newspapers and magazines, and as a basis digging from the records of the old Bible.

CHAPTER VII

Revolutionary Service, and Marriage of William Addington to Delila Duncan

From General Services Administration, National Archives and Records Service, Washington 25, D. C., ten pages names the Revolutionary officers under which he served: Captain William Young, Colonel Beannon, Captain James Bruton, etc., Brandon's Regiment. He received commission as lieutenant under Captain Young. It also tells where, the different places he served, in his application for U. S. pension which was granted him. It also gives the interesting testimony and proof his widow, Delila, later presented in obtaining her pension.

From other sources, William Addington and Delila Duncan were married 1784 on Duncan's Creek, Newberry County, South Carolina by Isaac Edward, a Baptist minister; and William Addington was buried at his home place, Franklin, North Carolina, after forty years of membership, in the Methodist Graveyard. From the National Society, D.A.R., Washington, D.C. the following letter, the Revolutionary service of said William Addington, being approved for D.A.R. membership:

BY THE CORRESPONDING SECRETARY GENERAL

Dear Sir:

In looking over our ancestral catalogue, we find listed a William Addington and the following information pertaining to him is printed in the 147th volume of our D.A.R. Lineage Book: Enlisted 1781 and served as a private and lieutenant under Colonel Thomas Brandon, South Carolina troops. He fought in the battle "Siege of Ninety-Six."

On December 23, 1784 William Addington married Delila Duncan, born 1765. There were twelve children to this marriage, and one dying in infancy unnamed. . . .

Jane, born January 1786.

John, born November 10, 1788.

Henry, born 1791.

Sarah, born 1793.

William, born 1796.

Moses, born 1797.

James, born 1799.

March, born 1802.

Delila, born 1804, married Huckaby.

Martha, born 1806, married Hicks.

Polly, born 1808, married Logan.

Elizabeth, born 1810, married Curtis.

One child died in infancy unnamed.

William Addington died September 7, 1845 in Union County, Georgia. He was buried in the adjoining county of Macon, at Franklin, North Carolina. Some of his children were located in the bordering counties of Georgia, but his home was on the Cartoogechaye River in Macon County, North Carolina. Hence his burial at Franklin.

William Addington was allowed pension on his application executed December 1833. His widow, Delila, received a pension 1848 when she was eighty years of age and a resident of Union County, Georgia.

The record of William Addington is established for membership in the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

CHAPTER VIII

Other Data Available on Descendants of William and Delila Addington

The 1790 Census indicates that Jane, the first child, did not survive infancy. National Archives says Jane deceased. Sarah, the next daughter, married Harrison. Sorry, data is not available at this time to trace the descendants of the other five daughters, viz.: Mrs. Sarah Harrison, Mrs. Delila Huckaby, Mrs. Martha Hicks, Mrs. Polly Logan, and Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis.

Now more about the six sons in the order of birth. In reply to inquiry to Public Library, Asheville, North Carolina, Miss Virginia Sevier gratuitously reported that John Addington and brother William Addington with Henry Addington and Moses Addington, from about 1814 to 1828 engaged extensively in the purchase and sale of lands along and adjacent to the French Broad River in Buncombe County, North Carolina. The information gave almost a dozen abstracts of the deeds, and concluded, "Early Wills of Buncombe County have been destroyed and wife did not sign deeds with husband."

1ST. SON — JOHN ADDINGTON

John Addington and wife Rachel, ages 61 and 59 were living in Gilmer County, Georgia, per his sworn affidavit, and the U. S. Census 1850 . They were married May 1, 1808 in Buncombe County, North Carolina. They had nine children. An effort is being made to obtain his "Will" to name correctly his children. "A worthy and respected citizen" says, Robert Smith, J.P. for Gilmer County, Georgia. "A man of good character and standing" says another official in connection with John's affidavit helping his mother, Delila Addington in obtaining her pension. John and family moved to Hall County, Georgia, but his "Will" was found in Jackson County, Georgia which is now given, as follows:

"WILL" OF JOHN ADDINGTON

4TH. SON — MOSES ADDINGTON

Moses Addington was born February 10, 1797, married October 24, 1814, Lydia Duckett, born January 31, 1797.

Their children: Avaline C., born 1815; Loranzo D., born 1818; Lowry, born 1820; William A., born 1823; one son unnamed 1825; Sarah Ann, born 1827; Thomas S., born 1830; Moses Henley, born 1831; L. C. (Caroline); born 1833; Mary K., born 1836; Harriet, born 1838.

Moses Addington died October 11, 1858. Lydia (Duckett) Addington died May 3, 1870. They are buried in the Mt. Zion Methodist Cemetery about seven miles west of Franklin, North Carolina.

William M. Addington, Wahkon, Minnesota said his father, William A. Addington, born 1823, married Adeline Kelly: five brothers and four sisters from this marriage.

Mary Addington Paul, Pasadena, California is a granddaughter of Moses Henley. He married in Atlanta, raised a large family of children in Texas. Mary's father was Edward Chesterfield Addington.

L. M. Addington of Pennsylvania also is a noted descendant of Moses and Lydia Duckett Addington.

BY L. M. ADDINGTON

Married Jessie Irene Merrill at Anoka, Minnesota

In the meantime I have had the opportunity and privilege at different times of serving as school director in the public schools, as sabbath school superintendent, as trustee and Elder in the Presbyterian Church. The latter office I still hold. I consider this Eldership to be the greatest honor I have ever had.

We raised a family of three—two boys and a girl. Our oldest son James William, was educated in the public schools here and started his higher education at the University of Ohio at Athens, Ohio. In 1942 he made the choice of wanting to serve his country with the Merchant Marine. After finishing basic training he was assigned to their Cadet Corp at San Mateo, California, and Kings Point, Long Island, N. Y. He sailed the seven seas as Marine Engineer for several years during the emergency and then came back to his home town. He married a Burgettstown girl, Mary Jane McIntyre, and have two lovely daughters, Luanne and Jane Lee. "Bill" is now employed with the same coal company I was and in the same capacity and is giving a good account of himself.

Our daughter, Jessie Lee was educated in the local public schools, Indiana State Teachers College at Indiana, Pennsylvania, and the Robert Morris Business College of Pittsburgh. She married Howard W. Brabson, a local boy. He was educated in the local schools, took pre-medical at Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pennsylvania, and a course in medicine at Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia, where he received his Doctors' degree. Dr. Brabson is now on the staff at the Sewickly Valley Hospital at Sewickly, Pennsylvania, and has a thriving general practice at Baden, Pennsylvania. They have four children—two boys and two girls, namely, Donald Wayne, Dale Wendell, Jill Ellen and Sue Ann. He saw service in the Second World War with the Thirteenth Air Bourn Division for nearly three years.

Our youngest son, Merrill Beede, also was educated in the local public schools and Washington & Jefferson College. He left college to do his term of service in the Army. Was in the U.S. Marine Corp during the campaign in Korea. He married a local girl, Alice V. Keifer and is now located at Orange, California. He has since finished his higher education with a night course specializing in electricity." This 12/1/59.

6TH. SON — MARCH ADDINGTON

Union County, Georgia Census 1850:

Addington, March, 49.....	S.C.
Addington, Eliza, 25.....	Tenn.
Addington, Adaline, 18.....	N.C.
Addington, Mary, 16.....	N.C.
Addington, Catherine, 14.....	N.C.
Addington, Metty, 12.....	Ga.
Addington, William, 10.....	Ga.
Addington, Ann, 7.....	Ga.
Addington, J. March, 6.....	Ga.
Addington, Infant, 1.....	Ga.

As you can see the above wife is obviously a second wife. March Addington's first wife was Sarah Moore and they had a married daughter at the time of this Census who was Margaret Addington who was married to Daniel M. Killian. Margaret was born 1830 and married 1843, this last you have on D.A.R. record of: Mrs. Julia Killian Dennis, 126-101 (D.A.R. No.)

There may have been more younger children. I do not know.

— E. C. J.

William Addington, second son of Henry, the emigrant, inherited the home place in Union County, South Carolina by his father's Will made 1787. Coming into said inheritance by 1794, William Addington, who was living in adjoining county of Newberry, South Carolina, sold the said "home place" of 250 acres to Isaac Darnell. Then 1794 William bought a tract of land located in Newberry County, from John and Jane Duncan. William and Delila named their first two children: Jane, and John, the next two they named Henry and Sarah. It was genteel courtesy to name the first two children for Delila's parents, and the next for William's parents.

CHAPTER IX

3rd. — James Addington

Of the three older sons of Henry Addington the emigrant; James Addington deceased first. He served in the Revolutionary War in Waters Regiment, South Carolina. He owned six hundred acres of land. He made his Will July 28 A.D. 1798. It was recorded February 3, 1801, after his death. His wife was Rebekah. Their five daughters and four sons as follows:

Five daughters:

Mary, Sarah, Rebekah, Martha, Karenhappnch.

Four sons:

Thomas, Henry, James, John.

The said four sons were large dealers in real estate as shown by the extensive research of Mrs. J. W. Jones, of Canton, Georgia. Sorry, the marriage records and further genealogy of the said nine children of James Addington and wife Rebekah are not available at this time.

4TH. — HENRY ADDINGTON, JR.

About all the data or history of this youngest son, is in the 1787 Will of the emigrant Henry Addington, as follows: "My son Henry, 3 pounds Sterling put to interest until he arrives at the age of 21 years." James T. McD. Addington in "Memoirs of Georgia" published 1895, at Atlanta, said "Henry, died in Indianapolis, Indiana," Vol. 1, p. 285.

CHAPTER X

William and Margaret Cromwell Addington of Virginia, and Their Descendants, U.S.A.

Addington Vol. I, History of the Family of Addington in United States and England was largely about William Addington and wife, Margaret Cromwell Addington, and descendants, published 1931, 101 pages. The following comments and compliments on the book have not been previously published. This history and genealogy cannot be repeated in this book.

CERTIFICATE OF MERIT IN GENEALOGY

"The Council of the Institutes of American Genealogy has the honor to award a Certificate of Merit in Genealogy to Hugh M. Addington in Recognition of Original Research and a Meritorious Contribution to the Archives of American Genealogy in the Compilation of Addington Family and to nominate the compiler as a candidate for Election as a Fellow of the Institute of American Genealogy, Chicago, Illinois, 1939."

Later, Hugh M. Addington was duly elected a Fellow of the Institute.

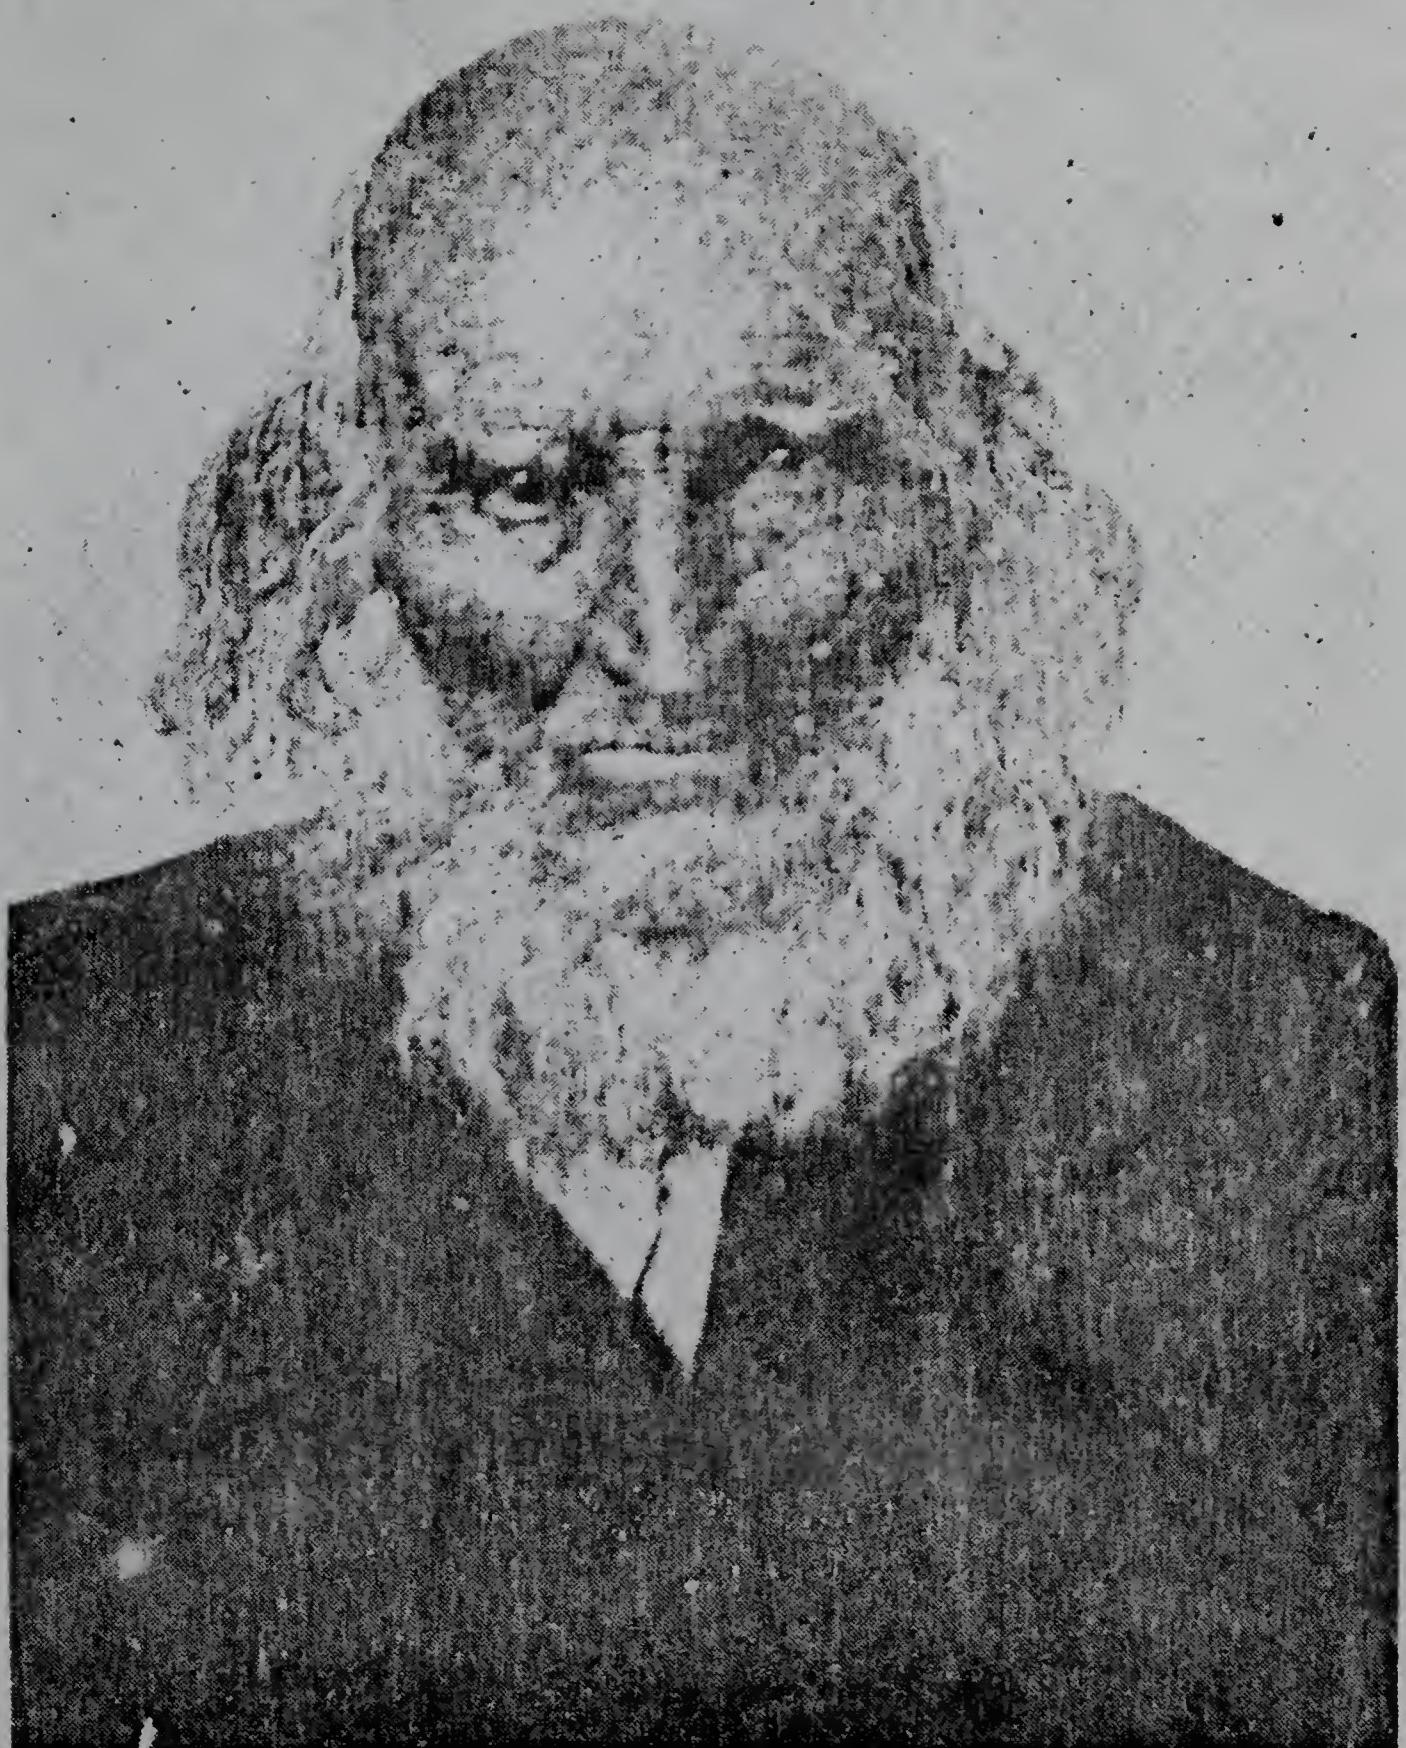

IN BLESSED MEMORY OF MANY NOTED CHARACTERS WHO PRAISED THE BOOK

It is a gem and I would not sell this one for any reasonable price unless I knew another was available.

— Rev. A. J. Wolfe, Big Stone Gap, Va.

I want to thank you sincerely for this book which I prize very highly. It shows a prodigious amount of work upon the part of its author. The work is well classified, is well written, and I regard it as a fine contribution to the genealogical history of Scott County.

— W. D. Smith, Division Superintendent of Schools

CHARLES CROMWELL ADDINGTON OF AMERICA

Centenarian, 1777-1882, nearing the age of one hundred years. Said to have been present with his father at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. Married three times, raised sixteen children, lived to be over one hundred four years old.

You perhaps know that I have always felt a deep interest in the pioneers who faced the dangers and hardships of this wilderness in early days and I like to keep in touch with their descendants through such publications.

— H. C. Stuart, Ex-Governor of Va.

It fills in my thirty years absence from Scott County.

— L. M. Addington,* Big 4 Transfer Co., Phoenix, Ariz.

* Went around world in Spanish-American War.

The book is very interesting indeed. It tells of so many persons we have known.

— J. F. Addington, Norfolk Navy Yard, Portsmouth, Va.

I have read the "History of the Addington Family" with much interest. I want to congratulate you on the work. It is well done. The Addington and related families owe you a debt of appreciation and gratitude.

— R. M. Addington, Historian, Gate City, Va.

I want to thank you in the name of the Board of the Virginia State Library for the copy of your "History of The Family of Addington in United States and England" which you have so kindly sent this library as a present. We are very glad indeed to add this volume to our collection.

— H. R. McIlwaine, State Librarian, Richmond, Va.

It is a treasure-house of much rare and valuable information.

— Prof. G. Milton Elam, College Hill, Cincinnati, Ohio

The history that it contains is of inestimable value.

— Dr. M. O. Fletcher, Washington, N. C.

I want to commend you highly on this splendid publication. It took time, patience, perseverance, and money to compile and publish the information it contains. It would be a credit to any recognized writer, either of the past or present age.

— Rev. J. L. Addington, Vice-Pres., Southwestern Virginia, Inc.

The book displays much research and investigation of the matters to which it relates. Its historical and biographical contents make it valuable for the general public, while its genealogy of the Addington Family make it peculiarly valuable to the relatives and friends of the Addington Family.

— J. P. Corns, Att'y-at-law, Gate City, Va.

The county and especially the Addington Family and its descendants are greatly indebted to you for the careful and painstaking time and labor you have given to the preparation of this history of your people. It will be appreciated more and more as the years go by, and as people have opportunity to read this book.

— Judge E. T. Carter, Gate City, Va.

After a careful examination I find that a careful and painstaking research and special ability for this work has resulted in an excellent history of a remarkable family.

— Prof. I. C. Coley, Com'r. of Accounts, Gate City, Va.

I have found it well written, highly interesting and thoroughly informative. It is a product of genuine scholarship with a patient industry for research and a meticulous care for details and accuracy. As an historical manual it possesses considerable value. You have rendered a real service, and I congratulate you on your achievement.

— Dr. N. W. Stallard, Dungannon, Va.

I read it through with a great deal of interest. It is neatly bound and well gotten up in every way. I think you deserve much credit for this work.

— Hon. S. B. Quillin, Lawyer, Lebanon, Va.

The work exhibits rare skill I think, and it certainly must have cost you a great deal of time and labor.

— Hon. A. S. Dickenson, Lawyer, Blackfoot, Idaho

Your book is far beyond my expectations. I do not know how you ever got all this history together; considering the way in which records have been preserved in our hurrid civilization.

— J. S. Fraysier, Gen. Contractor, Verona, Da.

I feel you deserve a great deal of credit as it is well gotten up and I am sure it required much time and care to obtain such history.

— Dr. Taylor Centre, M. D. Health Director, Ky.

I am enclosing cheque for copy of new book, "The Addington Family." I am a great, great grandson of Charles Cromwell Addington, Centenarian.

— Rev. Marvin S. Kincheloe, M. E. Church, So., Tazewell, Tenn.

Your wonderful book, "History of the Addington Family" has been received. In writing this splendid history of our people you will be remembered and loved, not only by the present generation, but by future generations to come.

— Rev. M. B. Compton, Judge Juvenile, Domestic Relations Court, Scott Co., Va.

I have examined it very carefully and consider it a volume deserving of much honor. I am sure this was a laborious task.

— C. P. Addington, Merchant and Postmaster, Wayland, Va.

We like the book. It is well gotten up and the style and reading is very interesting. We congratulate you.

— H. W. and W. F. Addington, Gen'l Merchants, Bulls Gap, Tenn.

I sure do congratulate you on this splendid biography of the Addington family. I enjoy reading it very much.

— Prof. W. R. Wolfe, Dungannon, Va.

After reading the book I was only prouder that I have been associated with the "Addington Family" in kinship and marriage.

— Prof. A. Alley, Bristol, Va.

Think the book splendid. Lots of good data in it—am glad you had the courage to get out the book. It does credit to you.

— H. W. Powers, Pres., Sec., and Treas., Different Enterprises, Bristol, Va.-Tenn.

You have amassed a vast amount of material and with infinite care.

— Prof. L. R. Dingus, Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky.

HONORABLE J. J. ADDINGTON
*Member of the Virginia Assembly.
Father of this author.*

You are rendering us all great service.

— Dr. John Preston McConnell, Pres.,
Radford State Teachers College

I think you have done a very fine piece of work in this compilation, and I am finding it of considerable help in similar work.

— Dr. James N. Hillman, Pres., Emory and Henry College

It shows that you have done much research work and the work will be valuable for generations to come. I do not know of a work on genealogy that is of greater value or has been worked out more minutely than your "History of the Addington Family." I wish to congratulate you and Scott County on the excellent literary work you have been doing.

— C. V. Compton, Supt. McCamey Public Schools, Texas

God has two dwellings: one in Heaven, and the other in a meek and thankful heart.

CHAPTER 1

The early history of the Addington Family is given. First at Potterspury, Northamptonshire. Two districts known as Addington are to be found in Cornwall and Lancashire, and villages by that name in Surrey, Kent, Buckinghamshire, and two in Northamptonshire. Second, at Fringford beginning as early as 1580 such given names as Margery, Henry, William, John, Ann, Ralph, Robert, Richard, Katherine, Elizabeth, etc., are of record. The Addingtons have always retained the name of their Yeoman ancestors at Fringeford. Genealogy, family history, diagrams of descent, and a map are given of the Addington Family of England.

CHAPTER 2

Dr. Anthony Addington, from Winchester College, went to Trinity College, Oxford, where he matriculated 1731, took his A.B. in 1739, his M.A. the following year, his M.B. 1741-2 and his M.D. in 1744-5. Dr. Addington started his practice in Reading, where in September 1745, he married Mary, daughter of the Rev. Havilland Hiley who was the Headmaster of Reading Grammar School. Dr. Addington was the first to give great distinction to the Addington Family. He was the Doctor of the King, Lord Catham, and a multitude of London. It is no wonder he amassed a great fortune. He was one of the greatest physicians of his day. He deceased March 22nd, 1790, aged 76 years, and Mary, his wife, who died November 7th, 1778, were buried in the churchyard at Fringford. "To their honored memory is erected this beautiful monument as a tribute of filial affection."

His Will showed he was a rich man. He left some to charity, but the bulk of his estate went to his two sons, Henry and Hiley, and his four daughters, Ann, Eleanor, Elizabeth, and Charlotte.

CHAPTER 3

This chapter is about the Biography of Henry Addington, First Viscount Sidmouth written by the Hon. George Pellew, D.D. in three large volumes of five hundred pages each.

It is said Lord Sidmouth generally had the support of the King and the majority of Parliament in his long and arduous career; that he outlived most of his contemporaries who opposed his administrations of office; and had a friend to write his biography after he was dead and gone.

CHAPTER 4 HENRY ADDINGTON, FIRST VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH 1757-1844

Member of Parliament for Devizes	—	—	—	1784-1805
Speaker of the House of Commons	—	—	—	1789-1801
Prime Minister, First Lord of the Treasury and Chancellor of the Exchequer	—	—	—	1801-1804
Created Viscount Sidmouth	—	—	January 12th, 1805
Lord President of the Council	1805,	1806-1807 and 1812
Lord Privy Seal	—	—	—	1806
Secretary of State for the Home Department			1812-1822
Minister without Portfolio, in the Cabinet	—			1822-1824

This chapter covers 100 pages of the Annals book. In it is much of the history of England, as well as the official biography of Henry Addington, for almost half a century. There is so much time involved, so many grave questions before Parliament, the wars and ambitions by Napoleon Bonaparte just across the channel which gave turmoil and concern to so many nations of Europe, it would be difficult to give a satisfactory brief without explaining or telling the whole story. Under date of September 24, 1843, Lord Brougham, let it be known that Lord Wellesley, Duke of Wellington, conqueror of Napoleon, ascribed much of his success to the wise and generous support of Henry Addington.

Henry Addington was twice married, firstly, Ursula Mary, daughter and coheir of Leonard Hammond of Cheam, Co. Surrey. Not wealthy but of strong political connections. She deceased 1811. Secondly, he married Marianne, only daughter, and heir of William, Lord Stowell, 1823, wealthy. She deceased 1842. Viscount Sidmouth deceased 1844; and his son, William Leonard Addington succeeded his father as Viscount Sidmouth 1844. Took his seat in the House of Lords 11th of June 1844.

Henry and Ursula Mary had two other sons, Henry, and Charles who deceased early in life; and four daughters: Mary Ann Ursula, Frances, Charlotte, and Henrietta. The name of Henry Addington with the names of Gladstone, the Cromwells (Oliver and Richard), Lord Mansfield, Disraeli, and others, over the years, are on record as distinguished members of Lincoln's Inn, England. Earlier by selection of the King, Henry Addington served as Governor of Charter House School where Roger Williams, Sir William Blackstone, Thackery and others received their education.

CHAPTER 5

JOHN HILEY ADDINGTON, 1759-1818 AND HIS SON HENRY UNWIN ADDINGTON, 1791-1870

1. HILEY ADDINGTON attended Winchester College and Brasenose College, Oxford, B.A. in 1780. He was a member of H. M.'s Privy Council. Elected to Parliament 1787 for Truro. 1796 returned for Wendover. In 1803 elected to the vacant seat of Harwich which he continued to represent down to his death. He was the mouthpiece with the press for his older brother, Henry Addington. In 1800 Hiley was made Lord of the Treasury; 1803 he became Joint Paymaster of the Forces. In 1812, Hiley became Under Secretary of State for Home Affairs, and deceased 1818, thus he can be said almost to have died in harness.

Hiley had married Mary Unwin of a wealthy family. His household expenditures for 1802 amount to £ 2334

3s and 10d . He must have entertained lavishly. Other years it was higher.

2. HENRY UNWIN ADDINGTON was the second son of John Hiley Addington. After being educated at Winchester College, he entered the Foreign Office in 1807, and was first sent to Sicily from 1809-11. Then to Cadiz 1812, and moved to Stockholm 1813. Later same year to Germany but in 1814 to Switzerland where he remained until 1818. In 1821 he went to Denmark and in the following year had an appointment in U. S. A. Returning home 1828 was posted as Minister Hesse Cassel; while in this appointment acted as Minister Plenipotentiary at Frankfurt. His last foreign post was Madrid where he went as Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary in 1829. Later he was connected with boundary settlement between Canada and the United States. In 1839-40 made a tour of Europe. 1842-1854 became Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and later member of Privy Council. He was a ceaseless traveller touring Europe again 1859-62.

In 1836 H. U. Addington married Elanor Ann, eldest daughter of T. G. Bucknall Estcourt who was for many years M. P. for the University of Oxford. Their only issue deceased as an infant.

CHAPTER 6

FAMILY BIOGRAPHIES

1. WILLIAM LEONARD ADDINGTON, SECOND VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH, 1795-1864. He succeeded his father as Viscount Sidmouth 1844. Took his seat in the House of Lords 11th of June, the same year. In 1820 he married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, Mary, daughter of John Young, an old family dating from 1559, Orlingbury, where they were considerable landowners. They had a family of twelve children, six boys and six girls. There is a notice of William Leonard Addington's death in the Gentleman's Magazine of May 1864. He deceased 25th of March previous. His wife died 17th of January 1894, aged 99 years.

Their children: Edward, Henry Escourt, William Wells, Leonard Allen, Hiley Robert, Charles John; Mary Ursula, Louisa Charlotte, Caroline Penelope, Frances, Sophia, and Eliza Anne. These are not in order of birth as Mary Ursula was the first child.

2. WILLIAM WELLS ADDINGTON, THIRD VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH, second son of the "twelve, six boys and six girls" of No. 1 preceding, the eldest son a lieutenant in the Rifle Brigade and educated at Winchester, deceased 1847. In 1836 William Wells Addington entered the Royal Navy and retired with the rank of lieutenant.

In 1848 in Norwich Cathedral he married Georgina Susan Pellew, daughter of the Dean of Norwich. In 1863 William Wells Addington was elected member of Parliament, and in the following year took his seat in the House of Lords. From 1874 until 1906 he was an active member of the House of Lords. His speeches and questions in all numbered over one hundred and were largely on naval and colonial matters.

He spoke quite well and used to address the Annual Primrose League Festival in East Devon. He was buried alongside his wife who had deceased 1896, at Up-Ottery where he had done so much for the Church and the Parish. He founded a school at Smeatharp which he named after his wife. Four sons and five daughters.

3. GERALD ANTHONY PELLEW BAGNALL ADDINGTON, FOURTH VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH, 1855-1915. He was the eldest of the Third Viscount's four sons and was educated at Rugby and Merton College, Oxford. In the Commission of the Peace for Co. Devon. He married the only daughter of Captain Lewis Charles Henry Tonge, R.N. All his four children were born in New Zealand. In 1896 he settled at Up-Ottery, England. Built five farms and some cottages on his Devon property. His great concern was providing a water supply to many of the cottages and farms on the estate. The names of the children: Gerald William, Raymond Anthony, Ursula Mary, and Marjorie Ruth.

4. GERALD WILLIAM ADDINGTON, FIFTH VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH, 1882-1953. He was educated at Eaton and abroad. In 1915 at Simla, he married Mary, the only daughter of Sir Donald and Lady Johnstone; they had no children.

When the first World War broke out, he joined the 6th Battalion of the Devonshire Regiment in October 1914. From Mesopotamia it was sent to assist in the relief of the garrison at Kut. The approach march was, according to the citation, "230 miles of mud, filth, cold, floods, starvation and desolation." In March 1916 at Dujailah Redoubt the Devons in the 48 hours of marching and fighting had a difficult struggle, only ten of the officers were left of the total of 29. Viscount Sidmouth's heroism in this action a brother officer wrote, "Was superb, doing all he could to help the wounded and mitigate the sufferings in complete disregard of his personal safety." He had other services, and was in Greece when the war ended. He was A. D. C. to Major General James Stewart, Governor of Aden.

After the war, he was Chairman of the Honiton Rural District Council, Director of the Eye Infirmary at Exeter, Chairman of the Discharged Aid Society, and a Governor of both Blundell's School at Tiverton, and All Hallows School at Rousdon.

5. MAJOR-GENERAL THE HON. CHARLES JOHN ADDINGTON, 1832-1903. He was the fifth son of the Second Viscount, William Leonard Addington, and was educated at Winchester and Cheltenham. In 1850 he joined the 38th Foot, now the South Staffordshire Regiment, as ensign, and remained in the Regiment until he attained the rank of brevet Lieutenant-Colonel in 1869, taking part in the battles of Alma, Inkerman, and the siege of Sebastopol where conditions were bad, indeed. He served right through the Crimean War.

On June 18, 1855 in the attack and occupation of the Redan, he was wounded before Sebastopol. Shot in the right leg below the knee, and a flesh wound above the knee. In a letter home he wrote he would probably be sent to England immediately. He was awarded the Crimea medal with three bars, for Alma, Inkerman, and Sebastopol. Also, the Turkish decoration of Medjidie; and the medal for Lucknow.

In 1858 he was promoted brevet Major; and Colonel in 1876. He was Lieut.-Colonel, Hundreth Foot 1871-1877. His next appointment was commanding 43rd Brigade at DePot Chichester from 1877 to 1882. From time to time and place to place till he reached S. E. District 1886, he was promoted to Major-General Commanding Shorncliffe, and retired 1890.

6. MAJOR THE HON. LEONARD ALLEN ADDINGTON 1828-88. He was the third son of the Second Viscount. His titles were Hon. Major and R. A. — Royal Artillery. He was born 11th of May 1828 at Surrey. He married Laetitia Anne third daughter of Erving Clark of Efford, Devon, in Buckland Co. 16th July 1853. They had children. The husband deceased 4th June 1888. His wife deceased May 12th, 1889. Buried at Up-Ottery.

CHAPTER 7

THE SIXTH VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH AND HIS FAMILY

1. RAYMOND ANTHONY ADDINGTON, SIXTH VISCOUNT SIDMOUTH. He was born at Marton, New Zealand, January 24, 1887, younger son of the Fourth Viscount, and came to England with his parents around by Cape Horn on the voyage home. He spent his youth at

Up-Ottery and was educated at Cheltenham and R.M.C. Sandhurst.

In 1907 he was commissioned into the Devonshire Regiment, of which his uncle, Major-General Hon. Charles Addington had been lately the Honorary Colonel. Raymond Anthony Addington in the first World War was in service at many places over Europe, Major Indian Army, until his retirement 1927.

In 1913, at the Brompton Oratory in London, he was married to Gladys Mary Dever Hughes, and they had six sons and three daughters. During second World War he raised and commanded A Company, 1st. Wilts Home Guard.

For education, services in different lines, successes and distinctions, marriages and children, some in the old world and some in the new world, of said six sons and three daughters of Raymond Anthony Addington, Sixth Viscount Sidmouth and wife, Gladys Mary Dever Hughes, see pages 151-156 of "The Annals of the Addington Family," published Winchester, England, 1959. CHAPTER 8

ESTATES, HEIRLOOMS AND PAPERS

I. UP-OTTERY AND RAWRIDGE

Chief of the Saxon township of Up-Ottery in the time of Edward the Confessor was "Alric the Priest." By 1759

*Up-Ottery Manor, Circa 1900
Noted Addington Dwelling Place in England.*

it was bought by Dr. Addington. Henry Addington who inherited the property from his father used to pay an annual visit to Up-Ottery, but preferred to live at White Lodge, Richmond Park, and in later life, at Erleigh Court. He added several hundred of acres to Up-Ottery property by buying up neighboring farms as they came into market.

The present house, a magnificent structure was built by William Leonard Addington, Second Viscount at a cost of £6,440. His son William Wells Addington to whom he made over the property, lived there after he retired from the Navy, and it remained the family home for over a century, the Third, Fourth, and Fifth Viscounts spending most of their time there. At the death of the Fifth Viscount in 1953, the whole property amounted to about 4,500 acres including farms in Smeatharp and Rawridge as well as Up-Ottery itself.

II. ERLEIGH COURT AND THE STAFFORDSHIRE PROPERTIES

These two estates came into the possession of the Addington family through the First Sidmouth's second marriage to the daughter of his friend, the eminent lawyer, Lord Stowell. Lord Stowell had in turn inherited them through marriage for his wife, Maria Anne, the daughter of John Bagnall, a descendant of the great Bagnalls of Staffordshire and Ireland.

In her Will Viscountess Sidmouth left £2,000 to the Royal Berkshire Hospital, while her husband presented a site for the building. She also left £1,250 to the endowment of Erleigh Church, to which her husband added a donation of £500, as well as giving three acres of land on which the church was built. 480 acres went with the Erleigh Court dwelling house.

Staffordshire.

Like Erleigh Court, the property in this county came through the Bagnall connection. This estate extended to a little over a thousand acres. It was made up of six farms in four parishes. The most valuable was the colliery, a bonanza coal mine, known as Chatterley Whitfield Collieries Ltd.

III. THE TONGE FAMILY AND HIGHWAY

Henry Tonge, the earliest known member of this branch of the Tonges lived at Britton, just outside of Bristol, and was "an aged man" when he died 1762. He was a wealthy man and bought a considerable amount of land, possessing properties at Tockington, Almondsbury and Aust in Gloucestershire as well as land in Somerset and Highway in Wiltshire. Ethel, the Fourth Viscountess Sidmouth inherited Highway, now a complete parish of 800 acres, and gave it to her younger son, Hon. Raymond Addington, now Sixth Viscount Sidmouth.

IV. HEIRLOOMS

Among the limited number, the most interesting are the "Nelson Table" and the "Woodley Vase" family reminders of the battle of Trafalgar, and the two handled trophy cup presented to Speaker Addington by the Woodley Yeomanry when he left their command. Another remembrance is a "likeness set in diamonds" 1814.

V. FAMILY PAPERS

This collection has been deposited in the County of Devon Record Office at the Castle, Exeter. The papers are housed in fifty-seven very full boxes, each box measuring 18" long by 15" wide and 8" deep.

These records of the Addington family were deposited at four different dates and at this stage, each deposit is being treated as separate entity.

First deposit has been subdivided into five groups: The first group consists of ninety-seven deeds 1597 to 1781. The bulk of them are for the Fringford Estate in Oxfordshire.

The second group is chiefly composed of papers about the Up-Ottery Estate. There are eleven hundred title deeds dating from the 17th to the 19th century, some of which were acquired when the family bought the properties and some produced during the administrations of these properties.

The third group is made up of four hundred deeds relating to properties in London, Middlesex, Essex, Berkshire, and Staffordshire, principally from the 17th to the 19th century, although one or two are for the 20th century.

The fourth group is almost exclusively of John Hiley Addington's estate papers. The Langford Court documents consist of over seventy deeds for this Somerset property and range from the 12th to the 16th centuries. In this group are twenty-three other deeds of the 19th century, concerned with Somerset estate, and of the property owned by Major Hon. Leonard Addington. The rest of this group is made up of various kind of account books covering divers and long periods of time.

The fifth and final group in this first deposit, is a miscellaneous collection, a rich store of Victoriana. The bulk of the papers are relative to the Third Viscount Sidmouth, including a bundle of papers relating to his Naval Career lasting from 1837 to 1846.

The second deposit of twenty boxes, is the most valuable part of the Family Papers. In this deposit there are only a few documents of purely family and estate nature, the vast majority of the papers are the correspondence of Henry Addington, the First Viscount Sidmouth, which have been available for reference and research to historians and authors even before they were made over to the Devon Record Office.

The third deposit is stored in ten boxes. Four of these are material acquired by Henry Unwin Addington during the course of his career. This material may be summarized as consisting of nine volumes of personal reminiscences from his incessant travels in both the old world and the new world, and seventeen files of letters and dispatches.

The fourth deposit is yet to be assorted and listed.

CHAPTER 9

FAMILY PORTRAITURE

The Addington family possess pictures of many of their ancestors, and most of these were done between 1775 and 1875. In all 51 original prints or paintings are known to exist. After the arrival of photography, portraits ceased about 1870.

The fine marble bust of Dr. Anthony Addington is now in the Victoria and Albert Museum in London.

There is known to be at least eleven different portraits of Henry Addington, First Viscount Sidmouth, four of them by the American-born artist, J. S. Copley, R. A. These portraits show Sidmouth as he appeared in the different high offices he held in the government over a period of more than thirty-five years. The book gives a description of each, and present location when known. There is a marble bust of his first wife, Ursula Mary, and beautiful drawing of his daughters, Frances Ursula, Charlotte, and Harriet.

Other lists of Addington Portraiture, including notes of historical importance, are the following:

The Second Viscount Sidmouth, William Leonard Addington, and his family.

Third Viscount Sidmouth, William Wells Addington, and his family.

John Hiley Addington and his family.

There are two engravings extant of Sir William Addington.

SIR WILLIAM ADDINGTON

Born 1727, deceased 1810, he was Major of the Westminster Light Horse Volunteers, Cavalry officer 16 Light Dragoons (now 16th Queen's Lancers). After service in Germany during the Seven Years War, he married the wealthy Miss Lumeley, daughter of Lord Scarborough. For twenty-eight years he was Bow Street Magistrate, and was Knighted. He published in 1775

"An Abridgement of Peel's Statutes" which by 1795 had run into four editions. His father was the Reverend Charles Addington.

(Insertion: one William Addington born in England about 1750 came to America 1770, travelled much, finally located in Culpeper Co. Virginia, in 1774 married Margaret Cromwell, and named his first child Charles who lived to be over an hundred years old. The emigrant's parents were said to be wealthy. Is Sir William, the Emigrant's close relation?)

Under the previous heading of "Portraiture," there are also enumerated quite a number of historical pictures connected with the history of England, in possession of the Addington family there.

GENEALOGY

Between pages 176 and 177 of "The Annals of the Addington Family" book, appears a map or diagram some 30" by 20" which illustrates genealogically Addingtons of England from 1351 to 1959, giving dates of birth and death, also marriages and immediate descendants. Much biography and family history is interwoven, and in some families the children are numbered. It begins with an early William Addington 1351 and comes down to Raymond Anthony Addington Sixth Viscount Sidmouth and Wife Gladys Mary Dever Hughes, giving their numerous descendants to the publication of the book, 1959.

The remainder of Chapter 9 has to do with the following subjects or material in synopsis with which Addingtons are more or less connected. Any way, the author has seen cause to research them in connection with the composition of the book, 1959.
